

Strengthen their commercial relationship

Bankia and ING extend their agreement for the free use of the ATM network

- ING will pay 0.65 euros to Bankia for each transaction that customers perform at the bank's more than 5,400 ATMs
- ING customers can use Bankia's ATMs free of charge for withdrawals of cash equal to or greater than 50 euros

Madrid, 24/06/2019. Bankia and ING have extended and strengthened their agreement, which establishes the conditions for the use by ING customers of Bankia's ATM network free of charge.

The agreement guarantees Bankia a minimum income from fees for the use of its ATMs, while allowing ING to make provide its customers with a network of more than 5,400 ATMs.

ING will pay Bankia 0.65 euros for each cash withdrawal transaction from the ATM network, in order to contribute to the investment Bankia has made in the maintenance and modernisation of said network.

For its part, ING will assume this amount for the cash withdrawals that its customers make using the Bankia network for amounts equal to or greater than 50 euros.

In this way, Bankia and ING continue to expand their commercial relationship, as they have recently reached an agreement to offer business customers, SMEs and freelancers of the orange entity, financing and other financial products and services under special conditions.

The aim is to facilitate the transition of customers from ING to Bankia, after the Dutch bank informed its customers that it will no longer provide services to that segment. Thus, nearly 110,000 SMEs and self-employed customers of ING will
